COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES are held in Nicholson Pavilion where each graduating Senior receives his diploma from a member of the Board of Trustees.

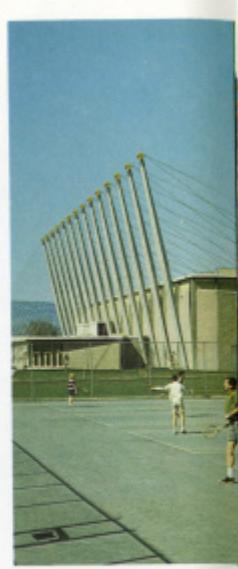

Central's 75th fall quarter was not too different from many fall quarters of the past. Some students returned to Ellensburg for the last time, others for another year and some for their first year at college. People moved into their residence halls or their off campus quarters to settle down for the academic year. Fresh beanies blossomed all over campus in a great variety of styles and colors. Soon freshmen and upperclassmen alike entered registration to claim their first classes for the year.

McCONNELL AUDITORIUM named in honor of former college president R. E. McConnell is utilized for many student productions.

TENNIS COURTS located by Nicholson Pavillion are the scene of much activity in the warm weather.

SAMUELSON UNION BUILDING is the focal point of many student activities.

BOUILLON LIBRARY and the Grupe Conference Center are two of the newer buildings on the campus.

One school year is a lot like any other school year. Academics are supposed to come first, and many evenings call for a visit to the Bouillon Library. Some nights though books are forgotten and couples find time for each other. Classes are always there, lecture halls are almost always filled with Central scholars. On campus students also spend a good share of their time in the college dining halls.

COLLEGE THEATRE PRODUCTIONS each quarter offer student dramatists a chance to develop their talents.

VARSITY FOOTBALL at Tomlinson field fills fall quarter Saturday afternoons with excitement.

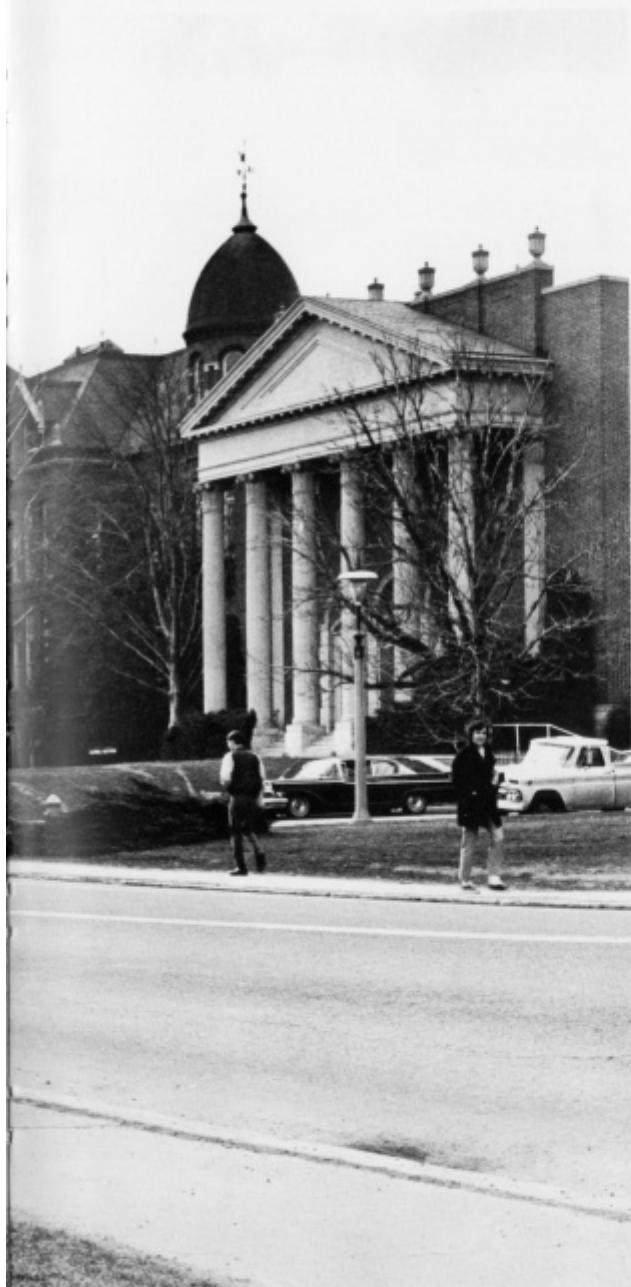

TEETER TOTTERING become a unique way to commemorate the 75th year for men from four dorms. They took turns riding the big board for a record 120 hours.

TRACK COMPETITION at CWSC attracts much attention. One of the outstanding individuals is Conny Englund from Sweden.

Pres. James E. Brooks

Dr. James E. Brooks assumed the office of President of Central Washington State College in 1961. Brooks became the first Central graduate to hold the office of president. He earned a degree in education with a social science major at Central and went on to earn M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in geography at the University of Washington.

Brooks, who now serves as the top Central administrator in the college's 75th year, once served as Vice-president of Central's freshman class; he was co-chairman of the Homecoming sign competition and a member of the Honor Council. He met his wife at Central. Mrs. Brooks is an experienced elementary school teacher.

Washington State Normal School

In the late 1880's Ellensburg residents hoped their city would be picked as the site of the new state capitol. Instead in 1889, the first Washington State legislature chose Olympia as the capitol site, and selected Ellensburg as the site for a state Normal School.

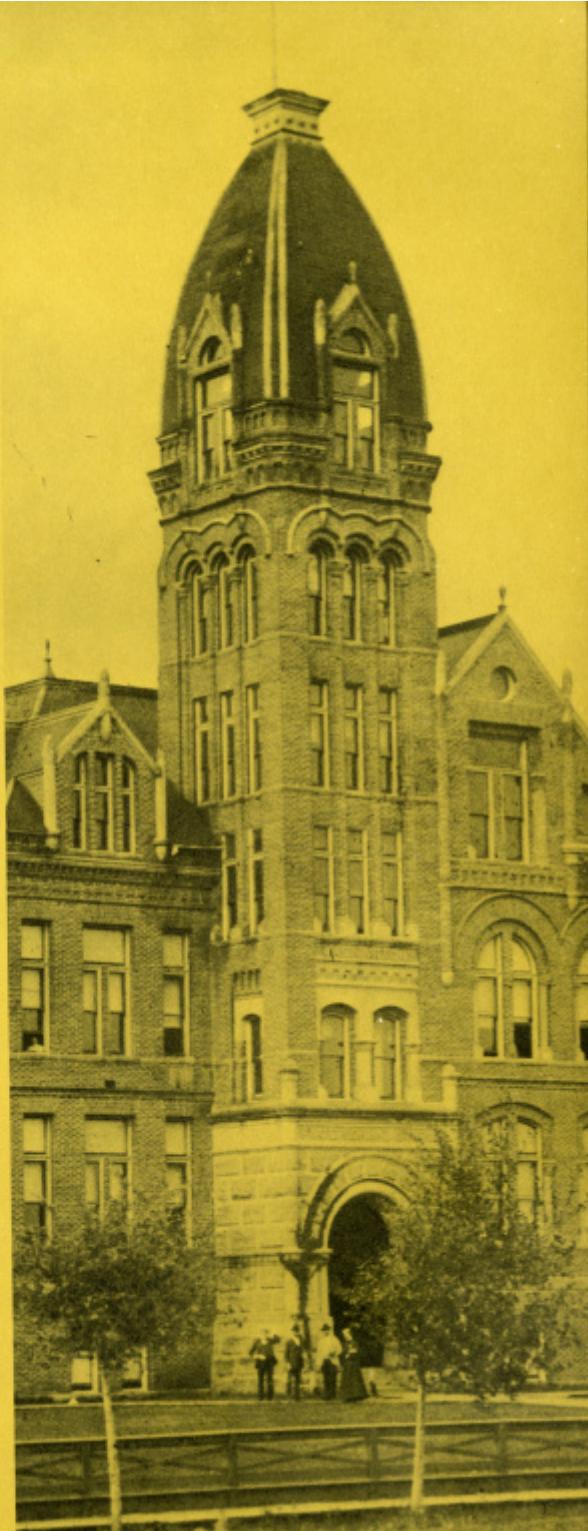

The legislature passed a bill introduced by state Senator Eugene Wilson of Ellensburg which read: "There shall be established in the City of Ellensburg, County of Kittitas, a school for the training and education of teachers in the art of instruction and governing in the public schools of the state."

Elisha P. Ferry, Washington State's first governor, signed the bill in the spring of 1890. But the state legislature failed to appropriate any funds for the operation or construction of the new school.

Washington State Normal School opened its doors the following year after the Ellensburg School district offered the state the use of the second floor of a school building that stood where the present Washington Elementary School is today. The legislature also appropriated $15,000 to meet the operating expenses for the first two years.

Benjamin Franklin Barge, a native of Concord, Massachusetts, was selected the first principal, as the top administrator was called. A Yale graduate, Barge was not only an experienced Normal school teacher and administrator; he had also been a farmer, stockman, hardware retailer and newspaperman.

NORMAL HALL was the first building on the Ellensburg campus. It originally housed all of the class rooms and offices for the college. Administration offices and art class rooms now occupy the building.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL was first housed on the second floor of a school building that stood where the Washington Elementary School is today. Ellensburg Normal's first principal was Benjamin F. Barge who organized the three member staff for the college

Barge and three other teachers composed the full faculty of the Normal school. Early college bulletins claimed: "The faculty is composed of mature and experienced instructors, specialists in many lines of work, whose wide and varied attainments and weights of character give great force to their influence upon students."

The early faculty was quite versatile though perhaps a little overextended. One early instructor, Edwin James Saunders, taught physics, chemistry, geology, geography, and astronomy. In 1889, John P. Munson, professor of biological science, became the first faculty member to have a Ph.D., a rare accomplishment at a time when many college instructors lacked even a bachelor's degree.

Student enrollment was limited by state law during the early years. Each county could send two stu-

opening. Principal Getz was the Normal School's head administrator when the college moved to the present college campus and the new Normal Hall. Shortly after the college moved into their new dents for every representative in the state legislature. Competitive examinations were given in each county to select the prospective students. Candidates for admission had a wide variety of scholastic preparation. The first year's students ranged in age from 16 to 36 with eighth grade or high school preparation. They all wanted to be school teachers and some had already taught in the public school system.

One hundred and seventy five students were expected the first year but when classes started only 51 students were registered. There were 86 full time students by the end of the first year.

When they registered, early W.S.N.S. students signed a statement saying: "We hereby declare that our purpose in entering the Washington State Normal School is to fit ourselves for the profession of teaching, and that it is our intention to engage in teach-building the first basketball teams started playing in the gymnasium. The old gym space is now occupied by the campus data processing center and an art classroom.

ing in the public school of this state."

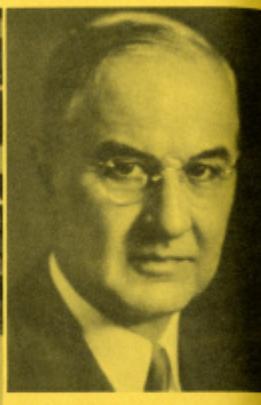

The original curriculum arranged by Principal Barge had junior students studying government, algebra, geography, zoology, English, physiology and U.S. history. Observation in the training school was considered very important for the prospective teachers who could also enroll in methods, school management, geometry, botany, physical geography and penmanship courses.

Senior students took psychology, school law, history of education, arithmetic, English, chemistry, geology, U. S. history and elocution. They also had sessions of practice teaching in the training school.

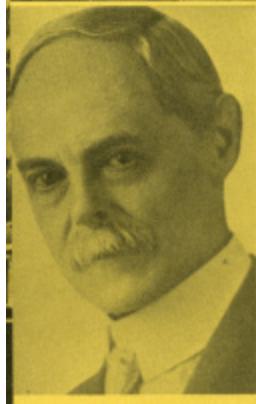

Eleven students were qualified to graduate after the first school year. They became the first of many Ellensburg students to become teachers in Washington State.

Early students received free tuition and books when they enrolled in the college. And in the days before the inflated dollar, four dollars a week was enough to pay for room and board "with the better families of Ellensburg," according to early college catalogs. There was no on-campus housing as there is today, and in the earliest days of the college the present college campus was a lot of sagebrush-covered land.

A single block of land on Eighth Street became the site of the college's first building in 1893. An appropriation of $60,000 authorized the construction of Normal Hall, now called Barge Hall after the first college administrator. The first building was the home of the entire college program. It housed the administrative offices and the classrooms as well as the first library and gymnasium.

THE FIRST LIBRARY was in Normal Hall along with all of the other college class rooms and offices. Since then the library has moved twice, first to what is now Samyer Hall and then to the present library. The college's first training school occupied the building now called Edison Hall.

In 1894 while the college moved out of its temporary Washington School quarters and into Normal Hall, a new principal also moved in. Principal Barge's successor was P. A. Getz, a native of Pennsylvania. He came to Ellensburg, now spelled without the "h," from Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth. Getz worked to strengthen the professional aspects of the Normal School's teacher training program.

Principal Getz resigned in 1898 and his successor was heir to the same city block campus, one building Normal school that was there when he started.

The third principal of Washington State Normal School was also a native of Pennsylvania. William E. Wilson came to Ellensburg from Rhode Island Normal School where he had been a professor of biology and education and the principal.

In contrast to Getz' ideas, Wilson believed that teachers should be thoroughly trained in the academic disciplines. He worked to strengthen the Normal school program in mathematics, physical and biological science, literature, history and art.

The size of the campus was doubled in 1903 with the purchase of a block of land directly behind Normal Hall. Four years later, a new training school was constructed on that site. Until then the old Washington Public School had been used for student observation and practice teaching by the Normal school students. This second campus building, now called Edison Hall, was built at a cost of $53,000 plus the cost of the plumbing and heating systems.

ACTIVITIES

FALL QUARTER REGISTRATION usually proves very frustrating to new students. Many beanie-clad frosh enter with mixed emotions and find registration is as confusing as it seemed it might be.

THE 5,000th STUDENT was Susan Donahoe from Sue Lombard Hall. By being 5,000 places back in the registration line, she earned several prizes from local merchants.

COLD WATER could not dampen some tug-of-war teams' determination to win. They would slip and slide back and forth through the cold water several times before either team was declared the winner.

Frosh Week Fun Initiates 75th Year

Freshman orientation week saw more than 5,000 students on Central's campus for the first time. Activities during the week ranged from the traditional Frosh tug-of-war match to pre-registration advisement sessions with faculty advisers.

College President James E. Brooks and SGA President John Kinsey spoke to more than 2,000 students at the All-College Convocation Monday evening, October 26, in Nicholson Pavilion.

Residence Hall initiations, discussions, and exchanges provided some relief from a heavy schedule of placement tests, class schedule planning, and finally fall quarter registration.

The annual Freshman Talent Show was held Friday and Saturday night in McConnell Auditorium. A brass trio from Whitney Hall was selected as the outstanding example of Frosh talent.

TUG OF WAR TIME saw two brand new dormitories, the highrise Muzzall Hall and smaller Davies Hall, claim the Men's and Women's Big Tug Titles. Below, the Big Q team from Quigley Hall pulls Stephens Hall Frosh towards the water. Quigley won, only to lose to Muzzall in the final tug.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT John Kinsey spoke to the some 2,000 students who attended the All-College Convocation. Kinsey called for the new students to be aware of what they could gain from their year at Central.

SGA President, John Kinsey, leads a discussion group.

All Learning is not in the Classroom

That was the theme for the annual Frosh Retreat. The seminar was held on October 14 and 15 at the Bar 41 Ranch west of Cle Elum. The weekend was spent in discussion groups and recreational activities. The final night ended with group skits and a hootenanny.

Talented Frosh pool their efforts to provide a final night of entertainment.

Three upperclassmen entertain in a sing-along hootenanny.

President Honored at First Semi-Formal Dance of the Year

The annual President's Ball honored college President and Mrs. James E. Brooks. Elwood Manor sponsored the year's first semi-formal October 8, 1966.

Music for the dance in the SUB Ballroom was provided by the Bill Richardson Orchestra. A reception line provided college students an opportunity to meet the college president and other school officials.

Homecoming Marks the Diamond Year

Seventy-five was the big number for the 1966 Homecoming activities as Central celebrated "The Diamond Years." The annual activities began October 27, when Stephens Hall's candidate Pam Palmer was crowned Homecoming Queen.

Queen Pam's court included the four other queen candidate finalists: Elaine Hankins, Dee Dee Mudge, Ann Rossiter and Virginia Poggi. They assisted Queen Pam at all of the weekend's formal appearances on campus.

Friday night of Homecoming weekend featured entertainment by pianist George Shearing with vocalist Ethel Ennis and the Satin Brass trio. A rock-and-roll dance with the Dynamics followed.

For the first time in several years, all campus living groups constructed Homecoming signs. Sue Lombard Hall claimed the first-place trophy in the women's division followed by Munson Hall, Glyndauer Manor and Davies Hall.

The Men of Elwood Manor were victorious for the third consecutive year in the men's living groups competition; other trophy winners included Carmody Hall, Barto Hall and Stephens Hall.

Saturday afternoon's Homecoming football game featured the Wildcats and Portland State. Sign competition results and a special band program highlighted the half time activities. Queen Pam and her court were also formally introduced.

The annual Homecoming Ball highlighted Saturday evening's activities. The Steve Laughery Orchestra played in the SUB Ballroom, while Don Girvan performed in the Cage; a second band, George Burns and the Velvetones, was featured in the Old Commons.

Other Homecoming weekend activities included the first annual Alumni Ball, the Alumni Banquet, special campus movies, and a women's field hockey game with the Alumni.

year in a row, gave Queen Pam her crown, a dozen red roses, and helped her put on her royal purple robe.

HOMECOMING ROYALTY for "The Diamond Years" included Princess Virginia Poggi, Princess Dee Dee Mudge, Queen Pam Palmer, Princess Elaine Hankins, and Princess Ann Rossiter.

HOMECOMING BALL was held Saturday night, October 29. The SUB Ballroom was packed to capacity as students and grads gathered for the Diamond celebration.

THE HOMECOMING GAME welcomed the largest football audience of the season. Cheerleaders and fans gave their best performance of the season as the Wildcats fought an exciting gridiron battle ending the afternoon on the short side of the scoreboard.

FIRST PLACE in the Homecoming sign competition went to Elwood Manor for their portrayal of an early Ellensburg dance hall. Sue Lombard Hall claimed the trophy in the women's sign competition.

"Requiem" Highlights

Nicholson Pavilion was filled when the Music Department commemorated the college's 75th year with a special performance of Verdi's "Requiem." The late fall quarter performance featured what some feel was the most outstanding musical talent ever assembled on the campus.

Martina Arroyo, prima donna soprano of the New York Metropolitan Opera, and the Philadelphia String Quartet joined the 200 voice chorus and the Central Symphony augmented by 22 members of the Seattle Symphony for the Sunday evening presentation. Other featured soloists included Robert McGrath, tenor; Lynn Dupin, mezzo-soprano; and Leon Lishner, bass.

PRIMA DONNA SOPRANO Martina Arroyo was a special guest performer for the performance of "Requiem."

75th Year

MUSIC DEPARTMENT Director Dr. Wayne Hertz conducted the "Requiem" performance. Dr. Hertz, who has headed the music department since 1938, said he did not think as many musical artists as participated in the performance of "Requiem" would gather on the Central campus for a long time to come.

"Comedy of Errors" Produced During

Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" was the first college theater production of the year. It was staged as a play within a play—a troupe of actors arrive in a medieval town square, set up their equipment, and do their play for the audience that assembles. The medieval audience was free to act and react as it pleased just as the audience that assembled in the McConnell Auditorium was free to react as it pleased too.

The play was directed by Prof. Richard Leineweaver assisted by Dalene Youngbloom and Professor Milo Smith. Terrence Parker designed the sets, and Bill Eyman directed the lighting. Sandra Bennett was costume mistress, and Laura Munson was in charge of properties.

Fall Quarter

CAST MEMBERS—Bill Eyman, Tom Triplett, Terrence Parker, Terence Uppenberg, Howard Siegal, Mike Parton, Ken Shoemaker, Richard Wells, John Williams, Phillip Shrude, Timothy Correy, Bruce Hopkins, Kristie Thorgaard, Deborah Shaw, Virginia Beebe, Alice Watt, Jacqueline Schindale, Julie Falkenhagen, Greg Wilson, Claudia Johnson, Marie Antella, Marne Berndt, Gail Blair, Ann Broders, Jan Cichowski, Doreen Cooper, Robert Farmer, Teri Griffith, Justin Hull, Diana Keeton, Toni Loutsis, Laura Munson, Jim Paulson, Linda Rouse, Mack Rude, Judy Snyder, Bev Thrasher, Sandy Wharton, Terry Wittmeier, Rod Boyer, Hallie Butler, Rich Collingwood, Sue Davis, Pat Gerth, Pat Holmgren, Eileen Landreth, Dave McCartney, Sherry Munson, Michele Perrin, Maureen Rowe, Rod Sberrell, Jane Strong, Karen Wadleigh, Bob White.

The winter play for 1967 was "Susannah," an opera written by Carlisle Ford. The Music Department, directed by John DeMerchant, and the Drama Department, directed by Milo L. Smith, presented the play in McConnell Auditorium February 28 through March 4.

"Susannah" is an American opera, performed in English on an American scene. It is a modern tale of the Tennessee town, Hope Valley; and it is based on the apocryphal story of Susannah and the elders.

A double cast was used, with characters alternating nights. Susannah was played by Robin Marvin and Pamela Roether.

The musical style ranged from hoe-down music and hymns to dramatic arias of beauty and quality.

IN FRONT of the Polk cabin Susannah and Sam are engaged in a discussion.

ADMINISTRATORS rode the board for the 75th hour. The plank faculty included: Wendell Hill, Director of Auxiliary Services; Don Wise, Dean of Men; Mrs. Mary Belle Rockey, Dean of Women, and Dr. Daryl Basler, Associate Professor of Education.

ORCHARD HEATERS were used to heat the teeter totter staging area during the colder parts of the day. Over 200 gallons of diesel oil went up in smoke to warm cooled plankmen.

ENDURANCE RECORDS were established by several teeter totter riders. Brice Alvord, leaning on orchard heater, rode 14 hours and six minutes to set the first top time. He was later topped by Gordy Cunningham with a time of 14 hours and 42 minutes.

TEETER TOTTER TIME interrupted the study plans of many Barto, Beck, Sparks and Quigley Hall residents who went out to straddle the big splinter. Riding the board: Ron Stroud, Brian Watanabe, Ray Broyles, and Milton Wagy.

Teeter Totter Goes 120 Hours

Fifty percent up-fifty percent down were the final results of Central's first marathon, multiple man teeter totter ride. The highly publicized fall quarter frolic was sponsored by Barto, Beck, Sparks and Quigley Halls.

The teeter totter rose and fell a total of 120 hours, or five full days, through occasional rain, near freezing temperatures and dark cloudy nights. The ride began Friday, November 19, at 1:30 p.m. and lasted until Wednesday, November 23, at 1:30 p.m. The tottering stopped after college classes had adjourned and many students had already left for their Thanksgiving holiday.

Original plans called for a teeter totter that would carry eight men at a time; but campus technology proved inadequate, and the final teeter totter carried four at a time. The big board was placed in front of Barto Hall across the street from Holmes Hall.

The big stick never stopped moving for the duration. Riders changed very carefully every hour. Some riders tried to establish their own individual endurance records including two fellows who rode more than 14 consecutive hours.

Totter sponsors planned for 75 hours to honor the college's Diamond year. Dorm head residents and college officials rode the board through the 75th hour, as the Big Four dorms decided to shoot for a 100 hours plus.

The big stick became coed after the first few hours. Many of the fairer sex ended up riding the big board with their boy friends for an hour or two for what must of been a unique date.

Much publicity was directed toward the big stick in local papers and on local radio, and a nation wide radio broadcast told the story of the Central teeter totter. Some dozen daily papers carried teeter totter stories around the state.

The teeter totter finally stopped after some 115,000 teeters and totters in 120 cumulative hours. Many supporters claimed they could have kept going if only Thanksgiving vacation had not already begun when the big board finally stopped.

GO-GO GIRLS Florence Peck, Chris Bloom, Barbara Bate and Diane Simpson frugged the night away for the big-time spenders crowding the gaming tables in the SUB. A PRIZE AUCTION (left) followed the shut down of the SUB Casino. An experienced auctioneer conducted the bidding.

LITTLE LAS VEGAS featured the big casino favorite—roulette—as well as back room poker where Sweezy gamblers could lose their loot. Play money changed hands fast as most of the players tried for that one big break where they would really win big; most never did, and they left the SUB empty handed.

Las Vegas Night Features Fun

Gambling, go-go girls, stripteasers, speedy marriages, quickie divorces and an auction were the featured entertainment at the annual Las Vegas Night. Sue Lombard, Stephens and Whitney Halls sponsored the event for the fifth year.

Follies and Dollies set the theme for the evening in the Student Union Building. When the Players entered, they received $250 of "real" play money. They could invest it in such profitable games of chance as poker, black jack, acey ducey, craps and the Nevada favorite, roulette.

Two floor shows interrupted the big time gambling twice during the night. The shows featured singers, two artful strippers, a bevy of go-go girls and a rock combo. Following the entertainment gambling resumed.

When the tables and games were shut down a prize auction was held. Big-time spenders with enough loot could bid for record albums, magazine subscriptions, stuffed animals, cameras, and other prizes including a roulette game.

Most players left the little Las Vegas thinking they could have won, but the odds weren't just right. Others left carrying their auction prizes, or their "real" play money that might be handy someday.

CENTRAL'S STRIPPERS, Carol Schrechenegger of Sue Lombard and Terry Hiller of Stephens Hall, provided stripping action for entertainment.

Sadie Hawkins Ball

The SUB Ballroom took on a "Dog Patch" theme as lots of "Daisy Mae's" dragged their "Little Abner's" to the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance sponsored by Munson Hall.

Besides plain old fashioned rock and roll dancing to the music of The Dimensions the evening had wheel barrow races, piggy back races and a "Marrying Sam" upstairs in the SUB for Dog Patch type marriages.

During the dance intermission Sadie Hawkins and Little Abner were crowned. Richard Williams was selected as Abner and Linda Caughey ruled as sweet Daisy Mae.

SADIE HAWKINS ROYALTY were Lynda Caughey as Daisy Mae and Richard Williams as Little Abner. They ruled over all the activities during the Sadie Hawkins dance.

ROYALTY for the annual Christmas Tolo were King Mike Turner and Queen Janet Pintacura. Couples danced to the music of the Tom Hume Combo pictured below.

Couples danced to the music of the Tom Hume Combo at the annual AWS sponsored Christmas Tolo. Decorations carried out the yuletide theme. Tolo King and Queen were crowned at intermission. Mike Turner was crowned as King, and Janet Pintacura was honored with the Queen's crown.

NITIE NIGHT was the theme of the SPURS Winter quarter Pajama Dance. A wide range of pajama styles made the dance scene in the SUB quite different from the usual rock and roll dance. The Lincolns, from Stevenson, Washington, played for the PJ clad dancers.

SPURS Host Pajama Dance

After-hours apparel was proper dance attire in the SUB Ballroom Saturday, January 21 when the SPURS sponsored an all-college Pajama Dance. Couples clad in a wide variety of colorful pajama styles gave the dance floor scene a unique twist.

The SUB Lounge featured a big bed where couples could pose for souvenir pictures of the night they dressed for bed before they went to the dance.

Nite night music was provided by the Lincolns from Stevenson, Washington, who played a lot of rock and roll music but not a single lullabye for the pajama partiers.

PAJAMAS were the proper apparel for the dancers at the SPUR sponsored Pajama

BECK HALL donned little red noses and sang of Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer while Terry Parker portrayed Santa Claus.

THE COED CHORUS from Whitney and Hitchcock Halls won the honors in the mixed choral category.

MUNSON HALL song makers won the over all Christmas Choral Competition sponsored by Sigma Mu Epsilon.

Christmas Choral

The annual Choral Competition sponsored by Sigma Mu Epsilon, the music honorary, was held in McConnell Auditorium Wednesday, December 7. Many campus living groups entered the competition.

Munson Hall won first place in the competition as well as the Small Women's Hall division. Other titlists were Sue Lombard (Large Women), Off Campus (Large Men) and Beck Hall (Small Men). Hitchcock and Whitney took the combined group prize.

LITTLE PREFAB Munro Hall entered the smallest residence hall chorus in the annual competition.

PLAYBOY BUNNY gives President James Brooks and Assistant to the President Donald Baepler keys to the Playboy Club of Central (alias the SUB Ballroom).

I.K. Playboy Dance

The fourth annual Playboy Dance, presented by Centrals' Chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights, was held the night of November 18th.

Dimmed lights, candlelit tables and sexy bunnies were main attractions of the affair. The I.K.'s spent many hours putting together the dance and received decorations from the Playboy Club in Chicago. The "Bunnies," which served soft drinks, were SPURS in cottontail disguise.

Donna Krause reigned as Playmate and Gary St. George as Playboy at the semi-formal dance. Donna received a Playmate Pin while Gary received a free subscription to Playboy Magazine.

Music was provided by The Walker Larsen Trio, a band specializing in soft, smooth music with the night-club touch.

COUPLES found that you couldn't do a good twist in a semi-formal.

CANDLELIGHT and soft drinks were second in attraction to the bunnies.

VOTES WERE CAST for the Playboy and Playmate of the year by all of the couples attending the dance.

PLAYBOY AND PLAYMATE is Gary St. George and Donna Krause.

George Shearing

The George Shearing Quintet made an appearance in Nicholson Pavilion as the Homecoming entertainment of 1966. The jazz-band sounds came to Central on October 28. Shearing's blindness does not hinder his playing or composing of jazz, ballads, and musical tenderness. The George Shearing Quintet was formed in 1949 and the popularity of the group has risen since. His popularity as a musician was not to be denied by the Central audience.

Sharing the evening with the Shearing Quintet was singer Ethyl Ennis and Jack Lyman and his Satin Brass.

Travelers Three

The Travelers 3 played a very successful engagement to the Central Students. The Travelers 3 are "the world's first and finest four-member trio." The Travelers 3 consists of four members—Pete Apo, guitarist; Charlie Oyama, guitarist; Joe Lamanno, bassist; and Mike Botts, drummer.

The Travelers 3 play what they call Folk-Rock music, which incorporates "the eroticism of the big beat with the lyric and musical integrity of folk music."

Ferrante and Teicher

Erick Hawkins

Erick Hawkins, modern dancer, performed for the students of Central Washington in McConnell Auditorium on February 8. Erick Hawkins' art is large and open and extremely human in its appeal. It is not surprising that his work has been described as "sensuous humanism." His love dances have been considered the greatest and most moving in modern repertory.

This American has brought a new dimension of emotion to American theatre. Hawkins style brings a simple triumph to the American theatre after decades of a bogged down traditional style.

Ferrante and Teicher presented a two hour concert in Nicholson Pavilion on February 20 to a capacity crowd. In their performance they combined classical music with their own arrangements of tunes of Gershwin, Rodgers, Kern, Porter and other popular composers. Ferrante and Teicher first won national fame with their hit "Theme From The Apartment," which was followed by their first million seller "Exodus."

In addition to their personal engagements Ferrante and Teicher make appearances with symphony orchestras and on television network programs including Ed Sullivan, Hollywood Palace and the Bell Telephone Hour.

"Wings To The Stars," the 1967 Military Ball, sponsored by Central's ROTC unit, was presented on February 11, in the SUB Ballroom. The way in which the theme was carried out in the decorations, was one of the highlights of the ball. The entrance of the ballroom was formed to represent a three dimensional replica of the earth, with the sun and other planets of the solar system suspended from the ceiling in their orbital positions. The planets were constructed to their relative sizes with appropriately colored paper.

The Grand March started the Ball in its traditional manner, followed by the National Anthem.

The McChord Air Force Base Dance Band, a well-known Northwest band, provided the music.

Judy Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith A. Snyder of Mercer Island, was crowned Military Ball Queen. Judy was sponsored by the James Kelley Squadron of Arnold Air Society.

SGA Nominating Convention

CONVENTION CHAIRMAN, SGA President John Kinsey kept the nominating convention running smoothly.

On Thursday, January 26th, delegates from each living group congregated in McConnell Auditorium for the 1967 SGA nominating convention. The convention met nightly, ending on Saturday, January 28th. Midst cheers and confetti, Dennis Hamilton won the victory over his opponent Phil Rhodes, for the convention nomination for president.

Delegates demonstrated for their favorite candidates for legislative and executive positions. Spirit was aroused and the delegates marched with signs endorsing their candidates.

John Kinsey, SGA President was chairman of the convention. His duties ended Saturday night when the convention came to a close with all seats empty and paper covering most of the floor. The candidates for office winning the convention's nominations, now started on their campaign road to try to win the vote of their fellow students.

DEMONSTRATING FOR their favorite candidates, delegates waded through the paper that was thrown from the balcony.

HAPPY CANDIDATE Denny Hamilton accepts the congratulations of his friends and supporters after SGA election ballots showed he was the new Central student body president. He will serve until the end of winter quarter next year.

The annual SGA "Changing of the Guard" Banquet was held in Sue Lombard Dining Hall. All retiring SGA officers, the SGA officers-elect, SGA legislators and college administrative officials attended.

Marmie Anderson gave Dolores Hutchens, incoming SGA Secretary, a candle for the midnight hours she will have to spend and a set of keys that doesn't fit anything the SGA owns.

Steve Markham presented Social Vice-president-elect, Tim Wing, a canceled contract for winter quarter entertainment and explained that it was becoming a tradition for performers to cancel winter quarter appearances.

Austin Cooper, part-time Vice-president and Executive Coordinator, presented Executive Vice-president-elect Marc McBride a gavel, a box of Nodze and a Straight Arrow Athletic Club Cup.

Outgoing SGA President John Kinsey congratulated President-elect Denny Hamilton and then gave him one empty file folder, a bar of soft soap to use on college administrators and a baseball bat "persuader" that preceding SGA President Roger Gray had left for Kinsey.

Retiring President Kinsey also presented the Student Legislator of the Year Award to Fred Wickholm. Wickholm was honored for his contribution to student government activities.

New SGA Officers Selected

NEW SGA OFFICERS were honored at the winter quarter SGA Banquet. Officers-elect include: Secretary Dolores Hutchens, Social Vice-president Tim Wing, Executive Vice-president Marc McBride and President Denny Hamilton. Past and newly elected student government personnel welcomed the new student administrators and said farewell to retiring student politicians.

Miss Sweeey

Reigning as official campus hostess throughout the year was Miss Sweeey, lovely and petit Connie Harris. Connie was chosen on the basis of poise, talent, social grace and personality at the annual Miss Sweeey Pageant highlighting Parents Weekend. The senior coed hails from Seattle and has a Home Economics major and a history minor.

Paul Harvey

Paul Harvey, nationally known radio commentator and news reporter spoke to Central students and Ellensburg townspeople Friday, November 4, in Nicholson Pavilion.

Harvey is heard daily on national network radio and writes a column that runs in more than one hundred papers around the nation. His daily radio listeners number some fourteen million, and they write him some thirty-one million letters a year.

His speech was entitled "The Latest News." At times Harvey's soft eloquent voice almost lulled listeners asleep. The next moment, however, everyone within earshot would be sitting on the edge of their seats, trying to catch every word.

In his evening speech Harvey said that Americans want all of their problems solved for them so they can live without things bothering them.

Harvey explained that problems are like dust in a house or weeds in a garden. The house can't be dusted just once and the garden can't be weeded just once. The dust comes back and the weeds grow back. Problems keep coming back too; people must continue to dust or hoe or the problems will not only come back but they will multiply.

Ending his speech, newsman Harvey said: "Americans are going to have to learn to sweep away the dust and weed the garden."

RADIO COMMENTATOR Paul Harvey uses an eloquent, though somewhat casual speaking style to communicate his ideas. He spoke to an audience of students and townspeople in Nicholson Pavilion.

George Lincoln Rockwell

George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party, visited the Central campus Wednesday, January 25. He spoke to two near capacity audiences in an afternoon appearance in McConnell Auditorium and an evening appearance in Nicholson Pavilion.

Rockwell's visit was arranged by the SGA in the "interest of controversy," according to Student Body President John Kinsey.

Commander Rockwell's comments did cause considerable "controversy" among Central students who had an opportunity to write down and turn in questions that a moderator then asked the Nazi leader following his speech.

The commander charged that Communism is a Jewish plot to subvert the world. He also added that the Jewish masterminds were using the Negro race to further their aims.

An all white, Christian United States was the commander's answer to the Jewish-Communist-Negro plot. For Jews and Negros Rockwell proposed rehabilitation, execution, or exportation from the U.S.

Rockwell predicted an economic depression in 1969. "It will be sparked by inflation and racial tension," according to Rockwell. He also announced that he plans to ride the ensuing wave of discontent to the U. S. presidency in 1972.

During his visit to the campus, Commander Rockwell stayed in one of the college residence halls.

THE COMMANDER spoke to the men of Quigley Hall at a private luncheon. Quigley President Phil Rhodes (at left) had invited Rockwell to stay in the hall during his visit to the Central campus.

NAZI LEADER George Lincoln Rockwell leans forward to stress a point during his speech in McConnell Auditorium to a capacity audience.

THE WAILERS a top Northwest rock and roll band performed under the auspices of the Straight Arrow Athletic Club. The SAAC dance attracted one of the largest crowds of the year.

THE JADE EASTS performed for several college dances in the SUB Ballroom and 70 for several private dorm functions during the year.

Campus Dances

Almost every weekend had at least one night when amplifiers were unpacked and guitars tuned by 9 o'clock. Then a rock group would start for an hour or three for Sweezy couples who flocked to the dance floor—sometimes stag, but more often drag.

Some of the rock and roll groups that performed on campus were Marsha Maye and the Ravens, the Bandits, the Daily Flash, the Rum Runners, the Lincolns, Kathy and Thee Unusuals and the Impacts.

Other groups included George Washington and the Cherry Bombs, Him and a Few Others, the Gas Co., the Classic Sounds, the Night Riders, the Lucky Draft, the Henchmen and the London Fog.

PROHIBITION NIGHT hosted by Courson and Muzall Halls featured flapper costumes and music by The Tyme Machine, a group from Seattle.

Feature Northwest's Finest Bands

THE CANTERBURY TALES played at an SGA-sponsored dance in February. Tickets for the dance were passed out free on a first come-first serve basis.

The world-famous Philadelphia String Quartet became "Quartet in Residence" not only at CWSC, but also at Washington State University, Eastern Washington State College and the University of Washington.

The Quartet gave four concerts on the Central campus and provided coaching services for music students.

One of the most adventurous of all musical organizations, the Philadelphia String Quartet has pioneered in the presentation of 20th Century music. The Quartet has performed the complete cycles of Bartok and Schoenberg string quartets; it gave the world premiere and recorded George Rochberg's String Quartet No. 2, and it presented the American premieres of contemporary works by composers from Poland, Hungary, Norway and Holland, in a recent series at the Carnegie Recital Hall in New York City.

During past summers, the group has been "Quartet in Residence" at the Allegheny Music Festival and at the University of Rhode Island.

Veda Reynolds, first violin, has been a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra since 1943 and was concert-mistress of the Philadelphia Opera Orchestra. Eisenberg, second violin, has been with the orchestra since 1946 and presently is assistant principal second violin. Iglitzin, with the orchestra since 1960, is assistant solo viola of the orchestra. Brennan has been a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra since 1956 and was previously with the Detroit and Cleveland orchestras.

Central Students Tour Mexico

Thirty-three Central students went South of the Border and spent winter quarter in Mexico City.

The three-month program, billed as "an opportunity to develop international understanding coupled with continuation of a degree program at Central," permitted the students to enroll as a full-time student at the University of the Americas as well as enroll in a two-hour course at CWSC during winter quarter.

The students attended classes at the University of the Americas in a cooperative program established between the two institutions.

Accompanying the students to Mexico City was Reino Randall, associate professor of art, who arranged the program. He spent part of the past academic year on leave in Mexico, studying arts and crafts centers in the country. He prepared the cooperative program at that time as "something extra-special for the College's 75th Anniversary year."

The Central contingent had chances to visit one of Mexico's famous archeological sites at Teothucan and also had chances to view Mexican craftsmen at work.

The students that made the trip were assigned to live with a Mexican family selected by the University.

VISITING PYRAMIDS in Mexico during winter quarter are Peggy Thiel, Elaine Collett, Carlynn Kolbo, Sharon O'Neill and Barbara Mueller (seated).

MAN PLAYING was the theme of the 1966 Symposium. Large audiences gathered in Nicholson Pavilion to hear the key note speaker including Margaret Mead, Nelson Algren and Max Kap-

Symposium Highlights Spring Quarter

"Revolution was the theme chosen for the 1967 Symposium. The Symposium was oriented toward political revolution and social movement.

A balance between the academics and men actively engaged in a revolution was hoped to be achieved with the selection of the speakers.

David Burt and Dr. Elwyn O'Dell were co-chairmen of the Symposium, which was held Wednesday, April 19, through Friday April 21.

The five featured speakers were Sidney Hook, chairman of the Philosophy Department and head of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at New York University; John Dyckman, head of the Center of Planning Research at the University of California at Berkeley; Connor Cruise O'Brien of New York University's Schweitzer Program in Humanities; Miss Susan Sontag, author and critic; and Stokley Carmichael, chairman of SNCC.

After each of the major Symposium addresses, colloquia were led by CWSC students, faculty and guest commentators from throughout the area. The Symposium provided an opportunity for campus departments to schedule activities related to the symposium topic, such as drama, art exhibits, and other programs.

Central Singers Tour For 29th

Consecutive Year

The seventy-voice concert choir, the Central Singers, was noted for its versatility and ability to perform any and all types of music. Under the direction of Dr. Wayne Hertz, conductor, the choir toured the Eastern Washington area during spring vacation, giving fourteen concerts in five days.

The members were selected from the larger school choir of more than 200 voices on the basis of audition and performance. A new addition to the program was a sixteen-voice ensemble, the Central Swingers, who performed lighter numbers, with the emphasis on popular tunes.

Choir officers for year were Jim Creevey, president; Tom Reich, vice-president; and Mary Hartling, secretary.

The club again served ski enthusiasts by regularly posting pass conditions and maintaining a bulletin board advertising rides and riders.

Pepsters Promote Central Spirit

The 75th year pep staff tried hard to promote school spirit all through the year. The peppy ones appeared at almost all Sweeey athletic events on campus and away to cheer the Wildcats on.

A tricycle race for residence hall presidents was sponsored by the pepsters before the Homecoming game. They also joined the Crimson W Club in selling "Go Wildcat" buttons during Fall quarter.

The cheer staff ranks were supplemented by a little Wildcat mascot, Kathy Splett.

SPORTS

75 Years of Sports

Adrian "Bink" Beamer, Athletic Director

Through its 75-year history, Central has developed athletic teams which have been known for high spirit and excellent sportsmanship. Since the first basketball team started around 1904 and the fielding of the first football team about 1905, the Wildcats have developed a tradition of winning.

Football was one of the first sports on campus; but due to the lack of male students, it was hard to develop a team in the beginning. In 75 years though, Central footballers have compiled a record of 173 victories, 139 defeats and 18 ties, winning eight consecutive Tri-Normal championships, three Washington Intercollegiate Conference first places, and four Evergreen Conference titles.

From the start, basketball has been the winningest sport on campus. Through the years hoopsters have compiled a record of 660 victories and 390 defeats. The man who started the ball rolling for the Cats was Leo Nicholson.

Nicholson came to Central in 1929 and in his 34 years of coaching the basketball team compiled a record of 505 victories and 270 defeats. "Nick" also coached football, tennis, track and golf.

Spring sports developed early on campus but met with little success until recent years. The tennis team won Winco titles from 1935-1942 with Nicholson as coach and won three EvCo championships, the last in 1965 with Dean Nicholson, Leo's son, as coach.

The Wildcats won their first Winco baseball title in 1947 and then in 1949 and 1950 the EvCo championship. Golf has yet to see a team championship but in 1966 it had an individual conference champion, Pete Pitzer.

Track came to life in 1930 winning the Winco title and repeating again in 1942, 1943 and 1946. The Cats won their first EvCo title in 1962 and have won four consecutive since then.

Two "new" sports on campus—swimming and wrestling have had a great amount of success. The swimmers have compiled a 44-19 record, winning two EvCo championships and placing third and seventh in the NAIA nationals.

The wrestlers under the guidance of Eric Beardsley have compiled a 49-24-2 record, placing third in the NAIA nationals in 1966.

Cross Country Team Does Well

Cross-country which is among the unheralded sports on campus is one of the most demanding. Even though there is a "newness" of the sport which started in 1962, the Wildcat harriers have developed a tradition of going all-out.

This year Central had only one meet which was not an invitational. In the first meet of the season the Wildcats with 21 points defeated Eastern Washington (37) and Oregon College of Education (68). The Cats finished high in many invitational meets and garnered a third place finish in the NAIA District I meet.

The team selected Conny Englund as captain and Mark Henry as Most Inspirational.

Montana University All American Doug Brown, finished first in the CWSC invitational meet.

College Coach of the Year

WILDCAT BACK Jim Brunaugh gets turned upside down by a Portland State Viking as he tries to sweep left end during the Homecoming game.

At the beginning of the 1966 football season people were saying this would be a building year for Tom Parry and his Wildcats. Parry in his first season as coach had 15 freshmen on the varsity and only 11 returning lettermen.

It turned out to be much more than a building year. The 2-5-2 record was not too impressive, but the Wildcat brand of football and the total points scored were exciting and impressive.

Central opened the season with a 6-2 defeat at the hands of Humboldt State College in their Arcata, California "mud bowl." From there the Cats bounced back to defeat the University of Puget Sound, 19-10. Hitting the skids, Central battled to a 6-6 tie with Western Washington and lost to Whitworth College 28-7.

The Wildcats looked like "giant killers" when they played the Linfield College Wildcats. Central led 28-7 going into the fourth quarter, but Linfield unveiled its passing attack and scored 30 points in the final period, winning 37-34.

Next the Cats tied eventual Evergreen Conference champion Eastern Washington, 28-28, lost to Portland State at homecoming, 36-27, defeated UPS again, 14-7, and lost to Western Washington, 37-28.

Central had many outstanding players this year. Four Wildcats were picked as NAIA District I "Player of the Week." The honors were earned by Larry Warwick, Vince Brown, Jim Brunaugh, and Howard Hosley.

OFFENSIVE TACKLE Paul Alexander (73) gazes thoughtfully as the Wildcat defense moves into action on the field.

Central landed four players on the EvCo All-Conference team: Don Hazen, guard, selected for both defense and offense; Jim Brunaugh, offensive halfback; Larry Warwick, defensive tackle; and Dennis Esser, defensive halfback. Coach Parry was named Washington small-college "Coach of the Year."

Brunaugh proved to be one of the best rushers in the conference, leading the Wildcats in that department with 674 yards.

Hazen was voted the "Best Blocker," "Most Inspirational," and "Team Captain" by his teammates.

Below, GRADUATE ASSISTANT coach Keith Shaham passes last second instructions to linebacker Don Hazen. Two other grad assistants, Larry Smith and Bill Betcher survey the mid-field action.

NUMBER 75 Tackle Dick Broeker leads the Wildcats back to the field after the half time activities at the Homecoming game. Pep staffers Marmee Anderson, Art Mabbott, Ron Jones, Donna Krause and little Wildcat Kathy Splett cheer the varsity team on.

QUARTERBACK Butch Hill sweeps wide around the right end to gain yardage against Western.

Number Three in the Nation

Coach Dean Nicholson, NAIA District I "Coach of the Year," directed the 1967 team to the winningest season in the College's 75 year history, compiling a 27-4 record, placing third in the NAIA national tournament and winning the Evergreen Conference and NAIA District I championships.

The Wildcats opened the season winning their first six contests in a row before dropping two close games by a total of six points. Central kept rolling over opponents, picking up 21 additional wins and two defeats, capturing the EvCo and District I championships and finished as the number three team in the nation for small colleges.

Central was honored in the national tournament by receiving the James Naismith-Emil Liston, "Sportsmanship Award."

Several Wildcats received post season honors. Mel Cox, senior center, was the first Central basketball player to be honored as an All-American. Cox and Dave Benedict were named to the EvCo, NAIA District I and the national tournament All-Star teams. Benedict won the Charles Stevenson "Mr. Hustle Award" at the nationals. Dan Bass and Ed Rogel were both named to the EvCo second team and Glenn Smick received honorable mention.

COACH DEAN NICHOLSON discusses strategy with the Wildcats during the District I playoffs.

COACH DEAN NICHOLSON, NAIA District I "Coach of the Year," receives a gift from the pep staff and a standing ovation from the crowd.

All-American

In four years as starting center on the Wildcat basketball team, Mel Cox, has built a reputation as a team player, a hustler, an inspirational player and a gentleman.

Mel has rewritten Central's basketball record books and now holds every basketball scoring record in the college's history.

Cox reached his peak this year being selected to the small-college All-American team and led Central to a third place finish in the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City.

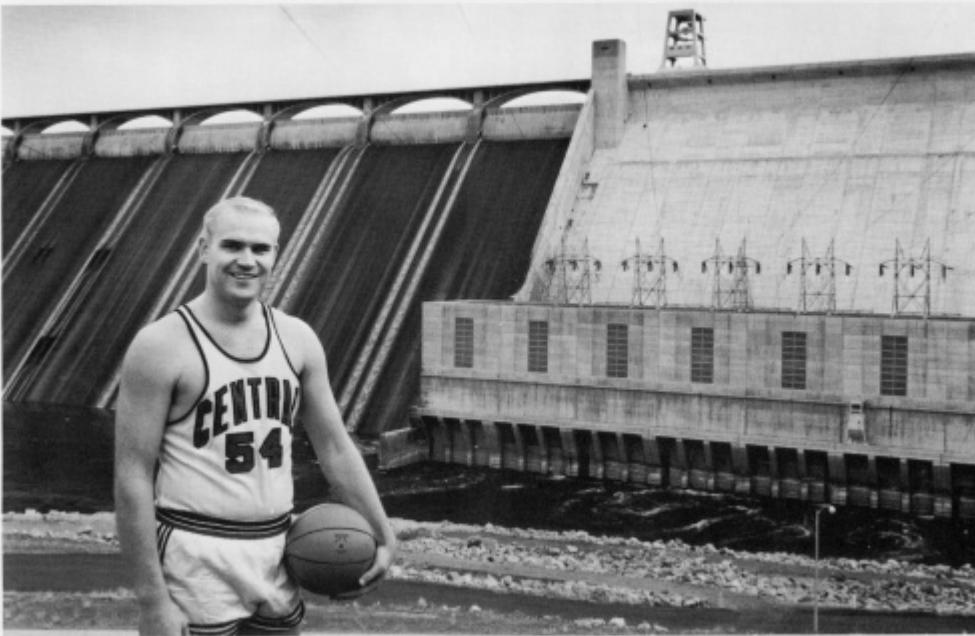

The big burly blonde has been selected as the "Most Inspirational" player on the team, chosen to the Evergreen Conference All-Star team the past four years and the NAIA District I team the last three years.

He is the second highest scorer in small college history in the State of Washington with 2,120 career points in 100 games for a 21.20 average.

92 Mel was chosen to the All Tournament team this year in the NAIA national tournament and scored 95 points, finishing as the third leading scorer in the tourney.

Big Mel is truly an All-American.

Champions

Wrestling has become one of the more popular sports on the Central campus as coach Eric Beardsley and his grapplers have gained national attention.

For the second year in a row Central has two national champions. Dennis Warren, Othello senior, and Lamoin Merkley, Moses Lake junior, repeated again this year as All-Americans and guided the Wildcats to the Evergreen Conference championship and a fourth place finish in the NAIA national tournament.

Central finished the regular season with a 9-3 record, the only defeats coming at the hands of Portland State College, the 1967 NCAA small-college national champion and the Multnomah Athletic Club which the Cats beat the second time around.

Along with Merkley and Warren Central had five other grapplers competing in the national championships. Dallas DeLay finished third and Alan Johnson fifth. LeRoy Werkhoven, John Casebeer, and VerNon Merkley also competed.

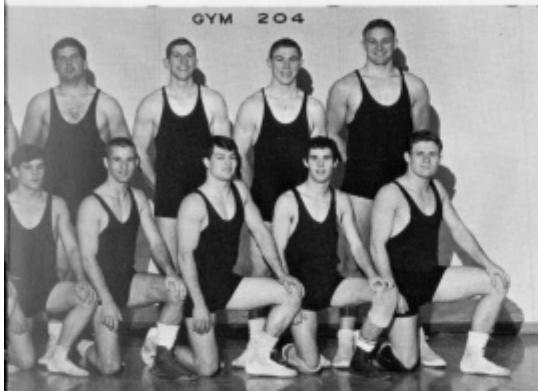

In the Evergreen Conference championships Central ran away with the victory scoring 109 points and capturing eight of the eleven individual titles.

Another Conference Championship

THE MANY moods of Central swimming coach Bob Gregson.

The pre-season polls picked Central as the number one team in the conference and one of the strongest small college teams on the West Coast.

Coach Bob Gregson's Wildcats lived up to the predictions, rolling to a 14-1 season record, winning the Evergreen Conference championship for the third consecutive year and placing seventh in the NAIA national championships.

Mark Morrill, Tacoma sophomore, led the way for the Wildcats. Morrill went through the season undefeated winning the Conference one-and three-meter diving events and then repeating the feat again in the NAIA national championship becoming an All-American for the second year in a row.

The Wildcats opened the season placing second in the Far West Relays behind Washington State University. The Cats only defeat was administered by Simon Fraser University, 53-51, when they won the final relay event.

After the lone defeat the Wildcats conquered all comers including such formidable opponents as the University of British Columbia, University of Idaho and University of Montana.

The Wildcats then romped to the EvCo championships, scoring 213 points to 119 for its closest competitor, Eastern Washington.

This was a building year for gymnastics, a relatively new sport on the Central Washington State College campus. The fledgeling Wildcat gymnasts are planning to make the big move into intercollegiate competition next year.

This year coach Dick Aronson scheduled several exhibition matches with other schools and universities to give his team a chance to compete and better be able to prepare for further competition.

Coach Aronson looks forward to next season and feels that there are several individuals already here who will help to put the Central Wildcat's imprint in the collegiate gymnasts record book.

The Wildcats have been one of the most successful track teams in the Evergreen Conference winning the Conference crown the past five consecutive years.

Again as in the past Coach Art Hutton's tracksters are heavy favorites to take all the marbles this year.

Hutton has ten returning lettermen back and five of those were entered and placed in the NAIA national meet in 1966.

The lettermen include Jim Boora, Conny Englund, Jim Brunaugh, Dennis Esser, Bob McCarthy, Dick Clintworth, Bill Hagedorn, Bob Metzger, Bob Santo and Steve Shireman.

At the beginning of spring practice there were 50 newcomers turning out which include a strong crop of junior college transfers.

With ten returning lettermen Coach Dean Nicholson in his first season as baseball coach is optimistic about the 1967 season.

Nicholson has a strong crop of junior college transfers to help fill in some of the holes and provide bench strength for the Wildcats as they drive for the Evergreen Conference championship. The last time the Cats won a baseball championship was in 1956.

Among the returning lettermen are pitchers Ed Aylward and Butch Hill along with Dave Klovahl the team's leading hitter in 1965 and 1966. Jack Miller, Brian Murphy, Chuck Basteyns, John Jamie-son, Ron Hopkins, John Neeley, and Howard Hos-ley are the other lettermen.

WRA Provides Activities for Women

VOLLEYBALL IS ONE of the extramural activities that is included in the WRA program.

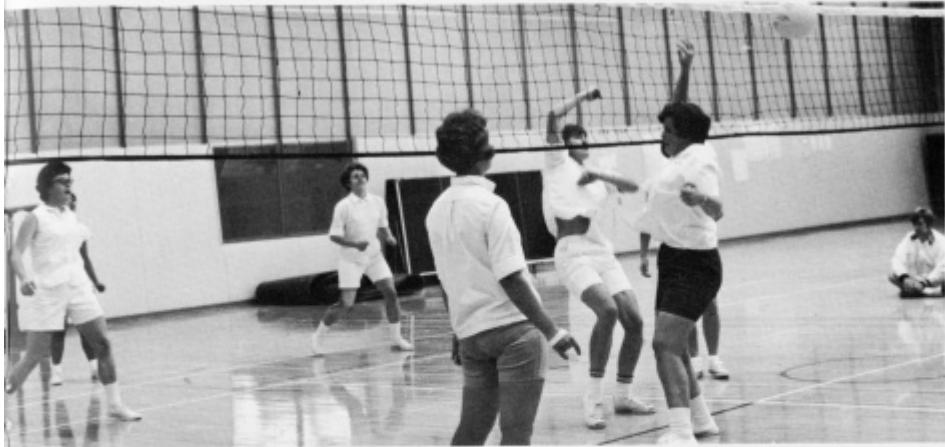

The Women's Recreation Association develops the idea of providing opportunities for women on the Central campus to participate in organized activities. Active competition between campus living groups is created in the intramural section of the program which encourages all women to participate regardless of skill.

WRA also includes the extramural program that is open to all women who wish to try out for a particular sport and compete against individuals from other colleges.

The extramural program includes field hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, bowling, track and field and gymnastics.

THE CENTRAL WOMEN played host to the Pacific Northwest Field Hockey Tournament in the fall.

MIA Has Variety of Activities

The Men's Intramural Association at Central attempts to provide every male student with the opportunity to participate in organized and informal sports activities as regularly as his time and interest permit. Appreciation of the worthy use of leisure time and wholesome attitude toward physical activity is the prime purpose of the organization and through participation it is hoped that individuals will develop this goal.

All activities are organized on a team and individual basis; this enables all to participate.

Teams are formed from living groups and also individuals compete for championships in table tennis, volleyball, basketball, cross-country, football, handball, swimming, wrestling and track.

Home of the Champions

TROPHIES GALORE—Nicholson Pavilion has become famous as "The Home of the Champions." Displayed in front of the Pavilion are trophies that were won by the winter sports teams this year.

The athletic program at Central has become one of the most prosperous in the College's 75 year history as was clearly exhibited by the 1967 winter sports program.

The Wildcats placed third in the nation in basketball, fourth in wrestling and seventh in swimming. Each won Evergreen Conference championships and the basketball team won the NAIA District I title the third straight year.

This prosperity does not only involve the winter sports but also continues into spring with the development of an excellent track team which has won the Conference championship the past five years and placed fifth in the nation in 1966.

Even though the teams have shown a great amount of success in the won-loss column—this year's winter sports compiled an unbelievable 50-8 record, possibly the best in the nation—the teams still maintain the all important goal—"Sportsmanship."

This was evident this year in the NAIA national basketball tournament when Central was awarded the "Sportsmanship Award," winning over 32 other colleges.

Many outstanding individuals have been involved with athletics at Central but none will stand out more than the names of Mel Cox, Dennis Warren, Lamoin Merkley, Mark Morrill and Jeff Tinius. All five are All-Americans.

Cox was the first basketball player at Central to be named to an All-American team. Both Warren and Merkley have been national wrestling champions the past two years. Morrill has won national diving titles the last two years and Tinius has been a two-time swimming national champion.

Central has truly become "The Home of Champions."

Central Washington College of Education

At the turn of the century, Washington State Normal School was still a small teacher-training school. Things were happening on the two block square campus though. Under the leadership of the school's third principal, William E. Wilson, Ellensburg Normal was growing in size and academic prowess.

The year 1908 saw the first step towards formation of what is today the Student Government Association. A Student Assembly was formed, and though it acted primarily as a debating society, it did give students a channel through which they could approach the administration.

Student publications continued to develop. The first student-produced publication had been a quarterly called the "Normal Outlook," started in 1899. The "Outlook" became a monthly issue from 1901 to 1905. In 1906 it became a yearbook called the "Kooltuo" which was "Outlook" spelled backwards. The "Kooltuo" was the immediate forerunner of the present day "Hyakem" which was first produced in 1922. The new title is from the Chinook jargon "hyak yiem" which means "to tell quickly."

Meanwhile the first district student newspaper, the "Student Opinion," was published. In 1916 it carried jokes, ads, pictures and society news. An annual subscription cost 60 cents, but in 1918 publication was suspended and the paper disappeared until 1922. In 1927 the name of "Student Opinion" was changed to the "Campus Crier." The "Crier" began what is now

CENTRAL STUDENTS agitated for a Student Union Building in 1947. Only $2,000 in donations was collected but students got what is now the AFROTC Office building for a temporary student club as a pacification measure. Earlier during the war, Army Air Corps Cadets were trained on the Central campus. They were housed in over 40 years of uninterrupted weekly publication. The early years also saw the start of the fine physical education and athletic program Central has today. The first "physical culture" program combined physical education and oral expression until 1914 when a separate physical education program was started. In 1916 the stated aims of the P.E. department were: "to furnish a normal course in physical education, to promote the health, grace, endurance, and coordination of the students and induce better habits of living."

Normal Hall housed the school's first gymnasium in a space now occupied by an art classroom and the campus data processing center. The gym uniform for Normal school women consisted of black serge pleated bloomers, white middy blouses and black elkskin soled shoes.

Kamola Hall for the duration. Until Nicholson Pavilion was built in 1959, the college physical education department building was on lower campus in what is now the lounge and ballroom area of the SUB.

As the physical education department grew, the college athletic program developed. In 1895 a women's basketball team was organized. The men's athletic team program started about the same time, but because of the limited number of men enrolled in the Normal school, activities were spasmodic. Early football teams were formed when the Normal school men joined forces with the local Ellensburg High School team.

A central heating plant for the college campus was built northeast of Normal Hall in 1913. In 1914 the manual training and physical sciences departments moved out of Normal Hall to the new heating plants first and second floors.

College officials were concerned about providing living accommodations but there were no funds available for dormitory construction until 1911. During the first year the Normal School operated, school officials leased a three-story residence on east Second Street. Some of the women students who lived in the house prepared their own food, saving half of the price asked for board. The house was closed after four months when operating expenses exceeded the budget.

In 1895, faculty members rented a building to be used as a student dining hall. It also was a financial failure and closed after one year.

An Ellensburg physician, Dr. E. W. Hitchcock, financed the remodeling of a three-story brick building at Fifth and Main Streets in 1895. The "Nash block" dormitory had 31 rooms available at a cost to the students of $75 a week. The first floor of the building was rented out separately and was at various times a warehouse, hardware store and undertaker's parlor.

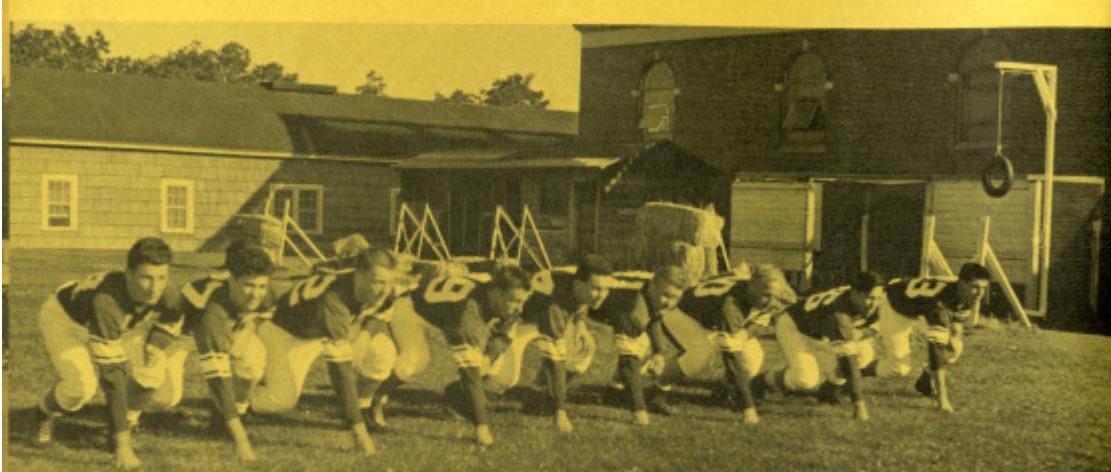

The Normal school board of trustees leased a building on Seventh Street in 1909. Labeled the "Normal Clubhouse" the building housed 12 to 15 coeds until 1915 when it became a men's hall called Eswin Hall.

Finally in 1911 the campus boundary line moved one block east of Normal Hall, and the first on-campus dormitory was built. Originally called the "Girls' Residence," now known as Kamola Hall, the two-story building housed 54 Normal coeds. A basement floor housed the kitchen, dining room and laundry. Men students were allowed to dine at the hall and it soon became necessary to extend the dining room.

The year marking the first quarter century of the Washington State Normal School at Ellensburg, 1916, brought several changes including Principal Wilson's resignation.

A native of Canada, Dr. George H. Black, was appointed college president. Formerly the president of the Lewiston, Idaho, Normal School, Black had earned a B. A. with honors from the University of Toronto. He had also been a staff member at Washington

THE PRACTICE FIELD for the school teams used to be the area behind the Student Union. Games were played on another field where Black Hall and the Grupe Center are now, or in the Ellensburg Rodeo grounds arena.

State's second normal school in Cheney.

The college campus added several buildings during the 14 years Black served as president. The first new building was another heating plant. The original heating plant had proved to be inadequate for the growing campus. The college also purchased a large house next door to the heating plant as the first college residence for the president and his family.

Until 1925 library facilities had been housed in Normal Hall. The new library building (now called Smyser Hall) was completed in 1925 and students helped transfer the 21,000 books and 3,000 periodicals.

Another section was added to Kamola Hall and two new dormitories, Sue Lombard and Munson Halls, were completed. A Student Association building was finished in 1928 filling a need for a gymnasium and recreation center.

Following WW II and again after the Korean War veterans enrolling in school caused a great enrollment increase.

During the state legislative session of 1917 the school code was changed, ordering each Normal School to establish and maintain an extension department. The legislature's idea was to make the school's resources available to more people. In the fall of 1917 the first correspondence study catalog was issued.

In the summer of 1918, WSNS offered a full summer session in Centralia conducted by the extension department. The session included 19 courses in education, psychology, rural education, English, art, manual training and music. Review courses were also set up to aid practicing teachers.

The extension program continues today with summer sessions, correspondence studies, campus institutes, and other services and off the Ellensburg campus.

Barto Hall

The blue berets of Barto Hall Freshmen stood out during fall quarter orientation week. Besides engaging in traditional activities, Barto based its orientation on registration procedures, giving individual and group help to those needing it.

Early fall quarter, Barto sponsored an all-campus Rock-and-Roll dance. Enough money was earned from this dance to purchase a new color television set, which went into the newly-constructed T.V. room.

As part of the dorm's cultural program, once a month the men hosted speakers who presented slides, debates, and similar programs of interest to the residents.

Barto participated with Beck, Sparks, and Quigley Halls in the 120-hour, four-man Teeter-totter marathon fall quarter. This record-setting event brought national news coverage to the campus.

Three privates enriched Barto's social schedule. Fall quarter's activity featured a pajama party, while winter quarter focused a "3-D" dinner dance, and spring brought a Hamburger, Hot-Dog Festival.

Buttons Apartments

Tiny but vivacious, Buttons Apartments was a small, active residence hall for women. One of their first projects this year was their Homecoming Sign. Each quarter, the residents had three coffee hours at which they invited a faculty member to speak. Then, in the spring, a barbecue was held for all the speakers. The girls sponsored still another function to provide still closer ties with the faculty—their annual Christmas Tea. The year was brought to a close with their spring quarter International Dinner.

A balanced atmosphere of academic and social activity was the goal in Carmody Hall. This small men's dorm, one of the "Pre-fabs," sponsored a R&R dance featuring "The London Fog," and several privates. They also took an active part in the campus Orientation and Homecoming festivities.

Beck Hall

Striving to establish a reputation of scholastic achievement, Beck Hall offered an interdorm scholarship, and increased their library. They placed second in dorm scholarship competition with an overall 2.34 G.P.A.

It was not all work however, as the men participated in ice cream feeds and hot dog sales during the year. Beck also, participated with Barto, Sparks and Quigley in the famed teeter-totter marathon. For the second straight year Beck won first place in the Christmas Choral Competition for the mens small dorm division. The year was concluded with an off campus private featuring a live band.

Courson Hall

Courson Hall, the towering new nine-story dormitory for women opened its doors to residents for the first time. Girls moved in but were forced to hurdle unfinished construction obstacles because the new dorm was not completed. Thanks to the continuing efforts of construction personnel, the barriers were overcome and the dormitory got off to a grand start.

The Courson "Angels" won first place in the homecoming tug-of-war and tricycle race. The combined efforts of their cooperation with their "brothers" in Muzzall to produce Prohibition Night was an overwhelming success. As a result, this fun filled dance night promises to become an annual affair.

Despite its newness, Courson Hall in this past year served to illustrate the importance of enthusiasm rather than seniority in creating a successful and happy year at Central.

PROHIBITION NIGHT was Courson and Muzzall Halls' contribution to the Sweezy social scene.

Davies Hall

Davies Hall "tugged" itself into a notable position by winning first place in the Orientation Tug-of-war contest. Continuing its fast-moving pace, Davies sponsored Homecoming Princess "Gypsy" Poggi, and won honorable mention for its Homecoming sign. A college-wide candy cane sale, a scholarship award banquet, a winter quarter all-college R&R dance, and a ski-weekend, brought the spirit and color of Davies Hall's year to a close.

Hitchcock Hall

"BENNY The Bomber" became a mystery personality made famous winter quarter by Hitchcock Hall. The unexpected activity began with a bomb scare call which evacuated the dorm for three hours late one evening. But "Benny" didn't stop there. A series of eight calls followed during the succeeding two-week period. Police and college officials worked long hours to find the mysterious "Benny," while Hitchcock women attended classes bleary-eyed.

But life went on, as the scheduled winter quarter R & R dance featuring "Kathy and the Unusuals" was given by Hitchcock as the primary money-making activity of the year.

SINGING CAROLS Hitchcock coeds enthusiastically participated in the Christmas Party activities.

Kamola Hall

"No make-up" was the rule for Frosh during Orientation Week at Kamola, violators faced a cold face washing by the "friendly" Barto men. But Frost became Freshmen as orientation ended with a candlelight initiation ceremony at Sue Lombard dining hall.

With the coming of Christmas, Kamola won 1st place in the women's large dorm Choral Competition, and was visited by Jolly Old St. Nick, who gave to each Kamola girl a dorm mug. Celebrating the Spring Sunshine and Warm Winds, Kamola women enjoyed a hayride and barn dance as a finale to the year.

Kennedy Hall

For every ant there is a giggle when the Kennedy coeds packed a lunch and took the Stephens men for a fall quarter picnic; but this was only a part of the fun. Kennedy women hosted a formal dinner featuring S.G.A. President John Kinsey, as guest speaker.

Several exchanges, a Halloween party, and an R&R dance featuring the "Gas Company" from W.S.U. Concluding the year, Kennedy sponsored another picnic as its spring quarter private.

Munson Hall

Snappily-clothed guys and hillbilly girls created the atmosphere for Munson Hall's annual fall quarter "Sadie Hawkins Day" tolo dance. During Orientation Week, Munson Fresh wore "Musketeer" beanies, complete with large ears. The second place trophy was captured by the dorm in the Homecoming sign competition. Other dorm activities included a Christmas party, academic speakers, and the traditional candlelight ring-passing engagement ceremonies. The year ended with a spring quarter hayride-barn dance private.

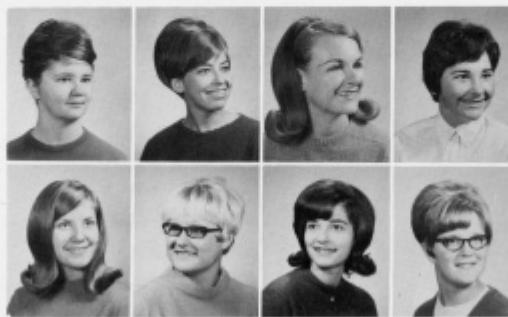

THIS MUNSON RESIDENT combined her studying with reception desk duty—a traditional freshman service to the dorm.

Middleton Manor

Most men adopt children, but the Middleton Manor Men adopted a new house with more room and a nicer appearance. With the new house came some new ideas, including a "Pig Stomp," a "bring your pig and stomp" dance. But the traditional wasn't forgotten in the move when the men of Middleton sponsored the annual Orange-Helmet dorm private, the second-annual Yakima River Run, and a kite-flying contest.

Munro Hall

Winning the scholarship trophy for fall quarter, Munro's men achieved academic success. Dorm members took an active part in student politics, and positions of prominence were won by two Munro men in the SGA elections. Munro Hall focused on fun too, as George Washington was given a birthday party at its R&R Dance. During Homecoming Munro won second place in the sign competition. The outstanding year was brought to a close with a steak feed at the Recreation Building, with dorm members, ex-dorm members, the deans, and their wives.

Muzzall Hall

Taking first place in the Frosh tug-of-war, Muzzall, the new nine-story dormitory for men, began its first year on Central's campus actively. In MIA, the men of Muzzall proved to be highly successful. Their cooperation with their "sisters" in Courson Hall to produce "Prohibition Night" allowed the men another tally on their list of successes. The dormitory also sponsored several private functions, including a weekend excursion to Snoqualmie Pass. In the planning stages was a project to send one of their residents to another university in the States, and one outside the United States, in exchange for two students who would come from these areas to Central.

North Hall

Intellectual achievement dominated the atmosphere of North Hall, with emphasis on scholastics. But social interests were not neglected as the men of North sponsored Homecoming Princess Ann Rositer, presented the annual Winter Wonderland semi-formal dance, a private Pajama Dance, and a ski weekend.

Quigley Hall

Quigley Hall started the year as the "We Try Hardest" dorm and kept right on trying hard all year long. Quigley Frosh fought to a contested second best in the annual tug-of-war battle to kick off dorm activities.

Homecoming time saw the Men of Quigley build a three story high Wildcat out of chicken wire and paper napkins. Quigley men also put in many hours on the big Sweeey Teeter Totter.

Teams from Quigley participated in all intramural sports sponsored by the Men's Intramural Association. Quigley also sponsored several mattress rides for dorm members who became engaged, among them the dorm Head Resident Eric Olson when he announced his engagement after the Christmas holidays.

Sparks Hall featured a varied and full social calendar this past year. To begin with, they won the Homecoming noise rally. One of the most successful rock 'n roll dances of the year was a Sparks' sponsored activity. Spring quarter, the men culminated the school year with a "Young Men's Cultural Picnic."

Stephens Hall

Its dedicatory year saw Stephens Hall much in the swing of campus activities. The first indication was homecoming, as it sponsored Homecoming Queen Pam Palmer and received honorable mention for its homecoming sign. The spotlight again rested upon the men as they co-sponsored Las Vegas night.

Their privates had a twist of the unusual—Possee House and hayride, pajama dance, Roman Holiday (with costumes) and a barn dance and hayride.

SUE LOMBARD HALL

Capturing first place in the Homecoming sign competition started Sue Lombard off to a good year. "From Kitten to Cat in 75 Years" was Sue's winning theme in the women's small dorm division. Sue then went on to compete in the Choral Competition and to have a Christmas party.

Poker, black jack, Roulette, quickie marriages and divorces, Go-Go girls and strippers highlighted the famed "Las Vegas Night" which was co-sponsored by Sue Lombard winter quarter. This was Sue's big activity and highlighted the dorm's year.

THE POOL TABLE makes the Whitney game room a favorite area for relaxation and a study break.

Whitney Hall

Whitney Hall residents, more familiarly known as the "Whitney Lovers," lived up to their image through their many varied social activities. To start off the year, their instrumental trio captured first place in the Frosh Talent Show, while November 20th saw the dorm formally dedicated in honor of Mr. Henry J. Whitney. In cooperation with Sue Lombard and Stephens Halls, Whitney men produced "Las Vegas Night," an all-campus annual tradition. Another success was their ski party, held over Washington's Birthday, while as a final relaxer just prior to Winter Quarter finals, the men hosted a Pajama Dance private. To culminate the active year the residents held their annual June steak feed.

THE WILSON LOUNGE is a handy place where residents may entertain their guests or just relax.

Wilson Hall

Beginning Fall Quarter in a flurry of excitement, Wilson Frosh had a busy and exciting Orientation week. An ice cream social, slides of registration, and a show at the Liberty Theatre added fun to the more traditional "beany-wearing" activities to acquaint the frosh with campus life. Under the leadership of a new Head Resident, Mrs. Della Bruett, Wilson ladies also participated in the Homecoming Sign competition, and finished the year with a Spring Quarter private.

ONE ADVANTAGE to off campus students was the opportunity to set up their own thirst-aid stations for use on an occasional study break.

THE "PIZZA MIA" was a favorite hang-out for Off Campus students, as well as On Campus students. Almost every night of the week Sweeby inhabitants would fill the little cafe.

Central Washington State College

In 1930 President Black resigned and Selden F. Smyser, a professor of social science, was appointed by the board of trustees to serve as acting president. Smyser had been a staff member since 1916. He was chairman of the social science department when he retired in 1942.

Another classroom building was added to the growing campus in 1930. The legislature appropriated $129,000 for buildings and grounds of which $100,000 was used for construction of the building later named in honor of Dr. Reginald Shaw, professor of geography.

When Dr. Robert E. McConnell agreed to accept the presidency of Washington State Normal School in 1931, the depression had cut student enrollment and the legislature had severely trimmed the school budget.

McConnell had first come to Washington to act as head of the education and psychology department at the Normal School in Cheney. He had graduated from Montana State College with a degree in animal husbandry; he had then earned his M.S. degree in education from the University of Wisconsin and his Ph.D. degree in education from the State University of Iowa.

During Dr. McConnell's presidency several significant legislative acts were passed. In 1937 Washington State Normal School's name was changed to Central Washington College of Education. Four years earlier, the school had been allowed to grant the B.A. degree in education. By 1947 the college was authorized to grant the B.A. degree in arts and sciences and the master of education degree. Two years later the authorization to prepare secondary school teachers and the master of education degree program at the secondary level was approved.

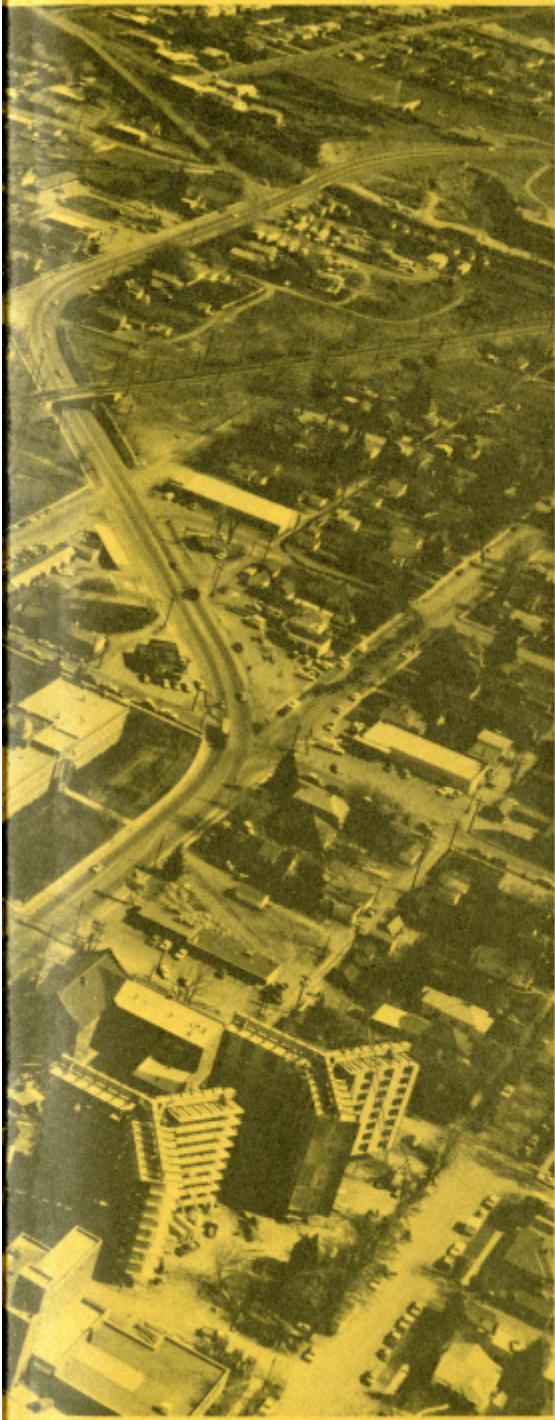

There was a growing need for an auditorium, science laboratories and industrial arts shops when Dr. McConnell was appointed president. In 1935 the state appropriated part of the money and the Federal Government agreed to provide 45 per cent of the $240,000 needed to provide the space.

Completed in 1937, the auditorium seated 986. The science and industrial arts departments moved into the north part of the building. The auditorium was named in honor of President-emeritus Robert E. Mc-

Connell in 1963, when Dr. McConnell returned to the campus to deliver the commencement address.

In 1938 ground was broken for a new training school north of Normal Hall. The College Elementary school was built with a Public Works Agency grant of $126,000 and $280,000 of state funds. In 1963 the building was named to honor Miss Amanda K. Hebler, who served as its director for 28 years.

The Second World War ended any hopes of construction, at least for the duration, while Central added its share to the war effort. The Army Air Force had selected Central as a training unit and because Kamola Hall was the largest dormitory it was turned over to the cadets in 1943. The Kamola women moved across the street to Munson Hall; the 55 men from Munson went down to the Antlers Hotel.

The end of the war brought many students back to Central, and the building program again moved forward. Construction costs for a new heating plant (the one used today) and a new science building on the east side of the campus named in honor of Dr. Edmund Lind, chairman of the science department, reached $1.9 million.

In the early 40's agitation for a new form of student government to replace the established Associated Student body began. Led by Roy Patrick Wahle, now a member of the Board of Trustees, a new system was created and inaugurated in 1942. Wahle was the first president of what is now called the Student Government Association.

The SGA was organized along the lines of state and federal governments. Executive functions were cared for by a president, executive and social vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer. Legislative functions were assumed by the SGA Council (now called the SGA Legislature) and judiciary functions were taken over by a faculty-student Honor Council.

The 1946 Strayer Report on Public Education in the State of Washington singled out Central's Student Government program saying: "...the entire process is an excellent exercise in democracy and of great value to the entire college community."

Large numbers of veterans returning to school following the war caused the college to acquire the surplus Ellensburg Army Airport hospital which was converted into housing for married veterans with children. By the fall of 1946, the college had acquired three other airport buildings for housing.

The airport buildings were named in honor of four men who had died in the war: former student leaders Courtland Carmody, Douglas A. Munro, Hamilton J. Montgomery, and a faculty member, Clifton Alford.

Emergency funds were secured from the state to meet the critical housing shortage. An addition to Munson Hall was finished and four surplus housing units and a cafeteria were moved to the campus north of the railroad tracks. Students, as well as the dorm names, were moved on campus from the airport with the prefabs which are still being used today though Montgomery and Alford Halls presently are faculty

BOUILLOU LIBRARY and Hertz Music Hall are two of the campuses newest buildings. The Library, named for a former chairman of the college Board of Trustees, was finished in 1961. The offices.

College officials also purchased older homes in the area to remodel into apartments for married students. The federal government brought in a number of temporary prefabricated houses. Elwood Manor was purchased in 1948 to serve as a dorm for 30 women. It now is a men's co-op.

Kennedy Hall was built in 1948, and North and Wilson Halls in 1951. Board and room rates and Student Government fees were raised to finance the Student Union building started in 1950 adjacent to the gymnasium on lower campus. The "old" Commons Dining Hall was also completed.

In 1957 the state legislature appropriated $1.4 for a new health and physical education building. Built in 1959 the building is one of the few in the world of a suspension type construction which eliminates girders, beams and interior wall supports. The building houses Central's first swimming pool and is adjacent to the college football field and track.

The new athletic pavilion was dedicated in 1960

in honor of longtime basketball coach and athletic director Leo Nicholson.

The Whitney-Stephens dormitory for 250 men and the college apartments were completed in 1959 at a cost of $1.4 million. An additional $3.3 million in 1960 made possible the construction of Anderson, Barto and Moore Halls as well as the first section of Holmes Dining Hall. All of the buildings were named for long time college staff members.

President McConnell resigned in 1959 to accept a position as a regional representative of the U.S. Office of Education in the administration of higher education programs under the National Defense Act. His offices are now in San Francisco.

The Trustees appointed Perry Mitchell as acting president. He was then the college registrar and is now the director of College Relations and Development. Mitchell faced the problems of planning for a tremendously increasing number of students coming to Central Washington College of Education.

Guides Campus Discipline

The honor Council is a judiciary board established by the Student Government Association and approved by the college administration. The student members of the council are elected for one-year terms, and two faculty members are appointed by the college president to act as ex-officio members.

The Honor Council handles any students who are involved with a serious infraction of college regulations or violate the Honor Code. It may also be a board of appeals for students who feel they should contest the decision of a residence hall judiciary board.

Honor Council recommends appropriate action for all cases it hears to the Dean of Students where final action is taken.

The Young Republicans, acting as the student voice affiliate of the National Republican Party, were dedicated to furthering the philosophy of the political party. The Central chapter participated in special activities throughout the year. A torchlight rally and campaigning for Republican candidates were highlights of the 1966 year. The chapter hosted a banquet honoring Congresswoman Catherine May. It established a scholarship fund. It also sent delegates to the Annual State Convention in Vancouver.

AND—Action for New Democracy—was a recently established political club. Many AND members were active participants at Curbstone speak-out rallies conducted weekly in the Samuelson Union Building.

POLITICAL CANDIDATES including Dr. Gus Bansmer were sponsored by the Young political groups. Dr. Bansmer spoke to students informally after making his speech.

The Young Democrats have been busy this election year. The chapter president, Bruce Colwell, a junior, spent winter quarter visiting the State Legislature in Olympia. The Young Democrats club was very active during the fall political campaign. They put up signs for candidates and had guest speakers on campus. The Young Democrats also sponsored on campus speeches by Senator Warren G. Magnuson and Dr. Gus Bansmer, a candidate for the 4th district Congressional position.

The weekly CAMPUS CRIER was distributed regularly to Central's 5,000 plus students during fall, winter and spring quarters. Recipient of an Associated Collegiate Press All-American rating last year, the CRIER carried on its tradition of being "an exceptionally good college newspaper."

For the last issue of fall quarter a special 'Diamond 75' Edition was published to honor the college's 75th Anniversary. The 24-page paper carried special articles about the college's past and made predictions about the future for Central. A new logotype, designed by '65 grad Ray Cullis, also was unveiled to replace the old CRIER page one name plate.

Also for the first time, the purchase of the annual included the cost of having a portrait taken. As a result a record number of Central Washington State students have their photograph included in the yearbook helping to make it the largest annual in the college's history.

Last year the HYAKEM received a First Class Honor Rating from The Associated Collegiate Press.

Central Washington And The Future

In 1961 Central Washington College of Education became Central Washington State College and a C.W.C.E. Class of 1950 graduate became the eighth college president.

Dr. James E. Brooks, a member of the class of '50, had gone on to the University of Washington to earn his master of arts and Ph.D. degrees in geography.

Dr. Brooks was a Central staff member during the spring quarter of 1952 when he served as an instructor of geography. From 1953 to 1958 he was an instructor and then assistant professor of geography at Eastern Washington College of Education in Cheney. Later he was assistant geography professor at Portland State College and in 1959 was appointed assistant to the Portland State president. He served there until his return to Central.

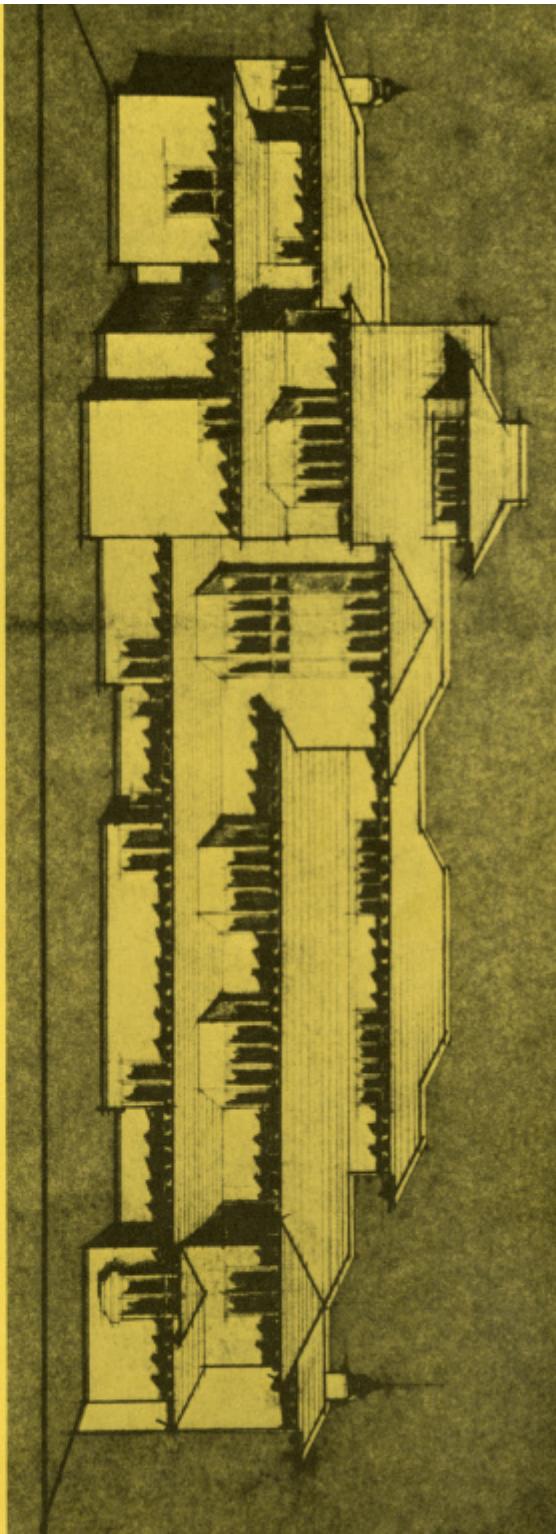

Since Dr. Brooks has come to Central the student body has increased from 2,266 students to a 75th year record of 5,081. The faculty has increased from 162 to 320 full-time members. Civil service employees have more than doubled from 138 to the present 312 people.

In 1958 a $25 million bond issue was referred to the voters. Referendum 10 passed and Central received $2.5 million for construction of a psychology and education building, a new college library and a storage building.

The new education and psychology building was named Black Hall honoring the college's fourth president. A conference center, named for an early faculty member and researcher in experimental psychology, Mary Grupe, was built separately.

In April of 1960 ground was broken for the new college library. Built at a cost of $1.5 million, the new building was named Victor J. Bouillon Library to honor the then chairman of the board of trustees. The library houses more than 106,000 volumes in the main collection. There is an additional collection of

THE STUDENT VILLAGE COMPLEX will be built east of Nicholson Pavilion on upper campus. The complex will be built in three phases. Phase I will be completed by fall of 1968.

PHASE I of the student village complex will house 240 students in cooperative houses, 73 upper division single women in apartments and 157 men and women in residence halls. The village will be east of Nicholson Pavilion, north of 14th Street. Other campus expansion plans include a student union remodeling and addition, and an some 1,500 periodicals and other printed materials.

Other library services include a complete audio-visual department; a curriculum laboratory which has collections of materials for all subjects in elementary and secondary schools; textbooks, curriculum planning guides, educational reference works and related materials.

The music and arts library includes more than 6,200 phonograph records, art books and prints and facilities to use the materials.

The library reference collection is being increased as rapidly as there are funds available with materials for use in the college's growing graduate study program.

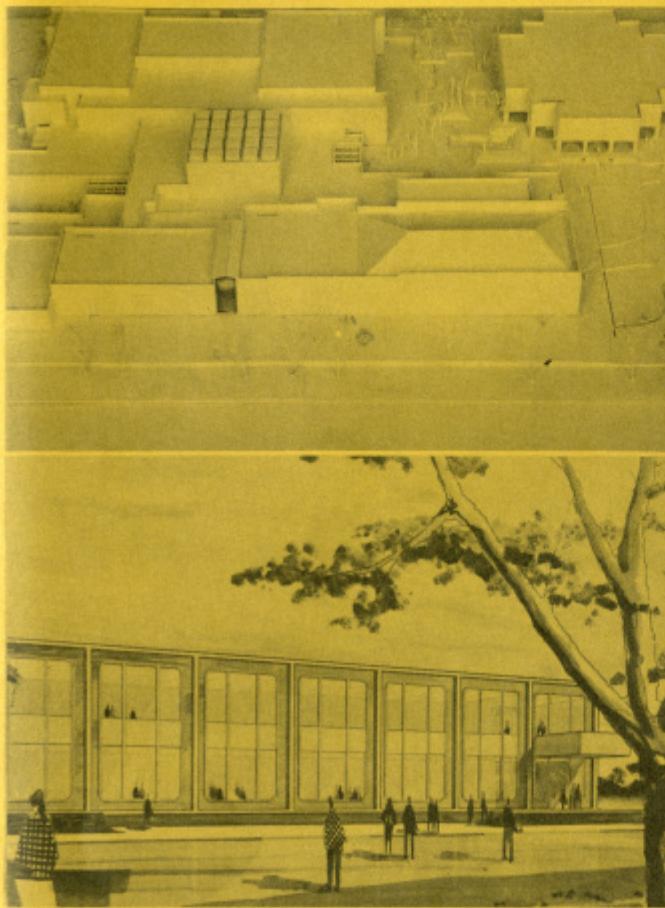

The last classroom building built was the new music building completed in 1964. The center of the Central administration annex behind Barge Hall. College officials are very concerned with planning for campus expansion as student enrollment is expected to increase considerably every year for the foreseeable future.

music department was dedicated in honor of Dr. Wayne Hertz, chairman of the music department and a college staff member since 1938.

Growing student enrollment saw the college open four new dormitories in 1965 as well as an addition to the Holmes Dining Hall. The four halls named for Professors George Beck, Clara Meisner, Loren Sparks and former Dean of Women Annette Hitchcock occupy the present east limits of the campus.

Four new dormitories opened for the start of the college's 75th year. Quigley and Davis Halls, named for former professors, were built from the same plans as the latter series of residence halls. Two high rise halls were built on Eighth Street close to the college's original buildings. The two nine-story buildings house 250 students each and are named for Dr. Ernest Muz-zall, late professor of education, and Kenneth Courson, emeritus business manager.

The November 1966 passage of Referendum 15 flashed a green light for some of Central's future building plans. The bill allows some $4 million for C.W.S.C. as well as money for the other state institutions. An Urban Renewal program in the Ellensburg area north of the campus will also provide land needed for expansion.

A building program involving some $18,765,354 will help develop the entire campus. In 75 years the college has grown from one block of land around Barge Hall to 168 acres with 60 major buildings including 26 residence halls. Enrollment may grow to 7,500 by 1975, according to some predictions, and perhaps to 12,000 before the end of the century.

Some of the expansion plans:

A Fine and Applied Arts Complex located south of the Pavilion near the Anderson-Moore residence complex. The area will include an art and home economics building. Funds were supplied in part by the successful passage of Referendum 15 and the building should be ready by the fall of 1968. A separate industrial arts building named in honor of Professor-emeritus Glenn Hogue is planned for the north campus urban renewal area.

A Language and Literature Building will house the English, foreign language and philosophy departments. The building is planned for the north campus and could be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1968.

A $3,293,500 student housing project will be constructed on land east of Nicholson Pavilion. The student village complex will include dormitories, cooperatives and apartments for some 1,800 students. Construction of the first phase, housing 577, should start by the end of the college year.

The urban renewal area will also include a new science building. Plans for the three-story building have been approved, and occupancy is expected early in 1968. The $2 million building will house the biology

CENTRAL WASHINGTON COLLEGE Home of the Wildcats has grown considerably since the days when everything was housed in what is now Barge Hall. The circular Grupe Conference Center with its reflecting pool is typical of the architecture planned for and chemistry departments. The other science disciplines will remain in Lind Hall.

An administration annex is planned for a site immediately behind the present administrative offices in Barge Hall. The two-story annex would include the business, admissions and registrar's offices.

South of Beck Hall on the upper campus, a $150,000 health center will be built as funds become available.

An addition to the existing Samuelson Union building is also planned. The extension of the building would utilize the play field behind the SUB and the existing college bookstore. The $2,022,500 addition will be financed by student fees on a self-liquidating basis. Construction will begin when funds become available.

Delivering a State-of-the-Campus Address to a joint meeting of the Board of Trustees and the faculty the growing campus. One of the buildings scheduled to begin construction this spring is the new science building which will be built on the upper campus.

in March of 1967, President James E. Brooks said Central had reached the end of an important era.

"Many important changes and developments, taking place in the state and in the nation, are exerting influence on our institution, and we are experiencing our most rapid period of growth," the president said.

"However, I also observe the institution in better position than ever before in its 75-year history to take leadership in education in this state and to achieve excellence in its many programs."

In looking to the future, Dr. Brooks commented that he envisioned Central as "a small university, a residential institution with a lovely campus, set aside by beautiful country but not isolated. It will be a university which will have established a reputation for itself in the West or even, in certain circles, nationally."
